Brad Couri, chair of the Bottom Line's Chicago Advisory Board and national board member, announced Scott Humphrey as the newest member of the Regional Advisory Board.

"We are incredibly excited to have Scott join us as we continue to grow our board," said Chris Broughton, executive director of Bottom Line in Chicago. "He brings a wealth of valuable leadership experience from his time leading both corporate and non-profit boards as well as from his tenure serving as a nonprofit CEO."

"I chose Bottom Line because there is no greater societal equalizer than access to a high-quality and affordable education, which is exactly what Bottom Line provides to their students. Their data-driven outcomes can truly transform lives and their leadership team is simply inspiring," said Humphrey.

Scott is also a partner with Social Venture Partners Chicago, a partnership of philanthropically-minded individuals focused on building a scalable social enterprise community in Chicago.
